Prior to or after the commitment expiration date, the cap may be increased or the commitment to maintain the cap may be terminated only with the approval of the Board of Trustees.

How did the Fund perform last year and what affected its performance?

Although they were volatile throughout the 12-month period that ended September 30, 2024, yields fell as expectations for a shift in monetary policy evolved. Investors began the period pricing in additional rate hikes and ended it with the Federal Reserve cutting rates for an initial time. Credit spreads narrowed and remained subdued—near the tightest levels in years for many credit sectors. Portfolio duration was lowered early in the period. The portfolio was generally managed near its strategic neutral position, though it ended the year modestly long. It was positioned higher in quality, and credit exposure was reduced as valuations became more extreme. The portfolio was positioned to benefit from diversified non-benchmark exposures. Top contributors to performance were allocations in U.S. and European high yield bonds, European investment-grade bonds, emerging market debt, non-U.S. developed market government bonds, and U.S. securitized bonds; credit quality allocation; and security selection. Curve positioning also contributed. The main detractor was duration positioning. The portfolio's strategic neutral is shorter than the benchmark. Portfolio positioning near neutral detracted as rates fell.
