This report describes changes to the Fund that occurred during the reporting period.

What were the Fund costs for the past year?

The table explains the costs you would have paid within the reporting period based on a hypothetical $10,000 investment.

CLASS NAME	COST OF A $10,000 INVESTMENT	COSTS PAID AS A % OF A $10,000 INVESTMENT
Class C	$209	1.85%

The manager has contractually committed to waive fees and/or reimburse certain expenses to the extent necessary to cap the Fund's total annual fund operating expense ratio at a specific amount. Without this cap, the costs shown above may have been higher. Please see the prospectus for the amount and the expiration date of the cap. Prior to or after the commitment expiration date, the cap may be increased or the commitment to maintain the cap may be terminated only with the approval of the Board of Trustees.

How did the Fund perform last year and what affected its performance?

Positive earnings surprises fueled a bull market for large-cap U.S. equities during the 12-month period that ended on July 31, 2024. Companies connected to artificial intelligence (AI) saw their valuations soar. The "Magnificent 7" stocks substantially outperformed the rest of the U.S. equity universe. Inflation concerns and policy uncertainty deterred sentiment for small-cap stocks. Late in the fiscal year, several Magnificent 7 companies struggled to meet high expectations. As a result, market leadership broadened, with small caps narrowing the performance gap relative to mega caps.

Portfolio companies facilitating the structural build-out of AI outperformed significantly during the year. The portfolio benefited from security selection within the consumer discretionary sector, where Deckers Outdoor Corp. did well, along with select technology positions, including NVIDIA Corp. Holdings within health care, including Exact Sciences Corp. and Penumbra, Inc., detracted from returns. We did not make meaningful changes to the portfolio during the 12-month period.
